Programme for the session

- Client projects
- ‘Engaging Manager’ research
- Benefits of the approach

Three client projects

- Engagement research for a government agency
  - questionnaires completed during focus groups with staff working in HQ and regional offices around the UK: 1. ‘What are the best things about working here?’ 2. ‘If you had to describe [name of organisation] as an object, a place, a person, a non-human living thing, or anything else, what would it be? Why?’
- Study of a group of healthcare professionals working with vulnerable teenagers
  - focus groups with staff and team supervisors: ‘Draw a picture, or give me some words or phrases, to describe what it’s like to work in your role’
- Culture audit for a County Council
  - focus groups with employees at all levels: ‘Draw a picture, or construct a metaphor, to represent the County Council’

Government Agency: word cloud

A word cloud visualization of terms associated with a Government Agency. The words are arranged in a horizontal, slightly overlapping manner. The most prominent words are 'supportive colleagues' and 'professional colleagues', both in large, bold, black font. Other significant words include 'work-life balance', 'diverse workforce', 'flexible', 'terms and conditions', 'work environment', 'autonomy', 'motivated workforce', 'respected industry', 'valued', 'social', 'interesting job', 'worthwhile', and 'varied'. The background is white.

worthwhile varied motivated workforce diverse workforce work-life balance terms and conditions flexible valued respected industry supportive colleagues social work environment professional colleagues interesting job autonomy

Government Agency: metaphors

- ‘Spider: useful and does important work, but not popular.’
- ‘Battleship in the age of agile air combat: feedback mechanisms are much too slow.’
- ‘The neighbour you’d call on for DIY but wouldn’t necessarily invite to dinner: equipment/knowledge/expertise when necessary, but not exciting.’
- ‘Margaret Thatcher: reputation for being firm and sticking to a course of action regardless of the consequences.’
- ‘Spaghetti Junction: lots of different work goals, strands and paths which occasionally intersect.’

County Council

County Council: metaphors

- ‘An octopus – with no head, but lots of arms affecting people’s lives, all operating independently, doing their own thing well but not talking to each other and not being joined up.’
- ‘A brick wall – which people can’t get through and don’t understand; managers need more training, staff don’t have enough time and feel blocked all the time when trying to help clients.’
- ‘Treacle – runs slowly, would run faster if heated up’
- ‘A threepenny bit – with lots of different faces, trying to do lots of different things; rolls along but bumpily!’

County Council: paper as the end product

County Council: a sheep in wolf's clothing

IES' s 'Engaging Manager' Research

How do engaging managers behave?

Research participants

- Funded via IES' s membership HR Network
- Seven participating organisations:
  - Centrica
  - Sainsbury' s
  - Rolls-Royce
  - Corus
  - Association of Certified Chartered Accountants
  - HM Revenue and Customs
  - London Borough of Merton

What we did

- Participating organisations nominated 2 to 5 managers whose teams had scored highly for organisational engagement in the latest employee survey
- We then:
  - interviewed these engaging managers (25)
  - interviewed their managers (22)
  - facilitated a focus group with their teams (154): 'Draw a picture to represent your manager'
- Report published in 2009: The Engaging Manager
- Follow-up report published in 2012: Images of Engaging Management

Positive, optimistic and warm

Communicating and listening

2 way Communication

Team focused and supportive

Protecting team and individuals

Reliable, dependable and loyal

Understands organisation and contribution of self and team

Manager as a high performer

Versatile, manages several things at once

Maverick, not following company line

Why use this approach?

- Liberates thinking
- Gives permission to be creative
- Allows people to get across what they mean
- Encourages discussion
- Makes a big impact
- Makes reports much more interesting to read

For the researcher and research participants...

- Enjoyable!

... thank you
